

Assistant Professor
Criminal Justice Department
Fall 2018 Appointment

Mitchell College is building on its long history of making liberal arts education more accessible by pioneering an entirely new approach which is flexible, strength-based and interest driven. Our ability-based approach to learning focuses on teaching adaptability through a core academic discipline curriculum, which provides multiple opportunities for students to apply skills in different learning and professional contexts. To keep this model innovative, vibrant and responsive to students' interests, we need instructors and faculty who are experienced in building cross-disciplinary collaborations between areas of interest, both in our core curriculum and in dynamic new concentrations of study. This revolutionary approach to learning ensures students learn the adaptive skills they need to live life well, both professionally and personally.

To fully support and build upon this new model, the College is adding a new Assistant Professor position within the Criminal Justice Department, who will share our passion for teaching across disciplines and becoming fully immersed within our community. For example, your Ph.D. in Criminal Justice (or related field) may lend itself to not only teaching within the same department, but creating a Behavioral Science course with a slant towards Forensic Psychology. By seamlessly blending their expertise into our core curriculum, our new faculty will continue to ensure our students reach their full potential, with an opportunity to create a truly 21st century educational experience.

Required Education and Experience:

- A master's degree in a related field of study is required; terminal/Ph.D. degrees are strongly preferred.
- 2 or more years of full-time teaching experience, with a preference for those applicants with experience working with students of diverse learning styles.
- Strong curriculum development experience.
- Documented active service on department, student or college committees and/or active service to organizations which directly relate to the academic goals of higher education.

A small liberal arts college, Mitchell developed its distinct educational approach over almost 80 years, blending a tradition of mentoring with an expertise in teaching diverse learning styles to create a highly individualized model that benefits all students. Mitchell is committed to the broader community through building strong, creative and cooperative partnerships. Located on a beautiful waterfront campus in historic New London, it is also home to championship NCAA Division III athletics and the Duquès Academic Success Center which includes the renowned Bentsen Learning Center.
