Thames at Mitchell College

Thames at Mitchell College is a transitional program for neurodivergent students. It offers a one-of-a-kind opportunity to ease into life after high school with supportive faculty and a strong social network. Thames students build executive functioning skills, gain social confidence, and prepare for new educational or life transitions.

Bentsen Learning Center

The Bentsen Learning Center (BLC) supports students with diagnosed learning differences and ADHD. Through this fee-based program, students learn strategies for success—both in college and in life—supported by individual Learning Specialists.

SAILS

The Self-Advocacy and Interpersonal Life-Skills Support (SAILS) Program is a residential social transition program that guides Mitchell students as they navigate the transition from high school to college. Students work with a coordinator and student mentors on social/emotional well-being, individual progress, social engagements, utilization of campus resources, and setting goals/areas of improvement.
